The official bracket for the opening round of the NAIA Baseball Tournament has been announced. Peru State College is one of five teams that will compete in the Paducah, Kentucky Regional beginning this Thursday.

Peru State is the number four seed in the regional, and will face number five seed Grand View at 10 a.m. Thursday. The winner of that game will face top seed LSU-Shreveport at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, while the loser drops into the losers' bracket.

The other first-round game Thursday has number-two seed Lindsey Wilson College facing number three seed Bellevue University at 2:00 p.m. Thursday.

The regional championship game of the double-elimination tournament is scheduled for Saturday evening, with a game on Monday if necessary.

Peru State will be making its first-ever appearance in the NAIA National Baseball Tournament after winning the Heart of America Athletic Conference Tournament title last weekend.
