Auburn Council Discusses Downtown Projects

You may have noticed a number of improvement projects in downtown Auburn recently. Monday night the Council spent a good deal of time discussing topics that will allow further improvements to be made.

Up first was a meeting with representatives of the School House Graphic Products students from Arnold, Nebraska. Mayor Scott Kudrna. (play audio :37 seconds)

The Auburn Council also further discussed ways to move forward with gaining recognition for areas of the city from the Nebraska State Historical Society. (play audio :21 seconds)

Mayor Kudrna says the goal is to help business owners make improvements while preserving historic looks. (play audio :39 seconds)

Mayor Kudrna explains some of the hoops the City will need to set up to meet guidelines and keep local control of the projects. (play audio :35 seconds)

The Auburn Council is also looking for ways to continue utilizing economic development funds the City is currently using for improvement projects. (play audio 1:05)

Mayor Kudrna also provided an update on additional asphalt projects and a bridge project the City has JEO Consulting looking at. (play audio 1:13)
