District Probe Clears Teacher of Criminal Wrongdoing

(KNZA)--No criminal findings in regards to a Horton High School teacher accused of improper contact with a student.

South Brown County Superintendent Dr. Steve Davies says the results of the internal investigation, launched by USD 430, have been shared with local law enforcement:

“Our investigation has been completed and closed, and the teacher did resign,” Davies says. “There was nothing criminal, and we have discussed that with two attorneys, one works for KASB [The Kansas Association of School Boards] and one works for us. We have discussed it with law enforcement and there just wasn't anything there that was criminal.”

The resignation of Family and Consumer Science instructor Elizabeth Crider was accepted by the USD 430 Board of Education following a 45 minute executive session which comprised the majority of a special meeting held February 26th.
