Woman's Body Pulled from Missouri River

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb. (AP) - Authorities say a woman's body has been pulled from the Missouri River just south of Nebraska City.

The Nebraska State Patrol said in a news release Tuesday that the body was sighted and recovered Monday. Nebraska City radio station KNCY reports that a trapper notified authorities about finding the body north of the Omaha Public Power District plant around 6 p.m.

The patrol says the body hasn't been identified. An autopsy has been ordered.
