

Long-running Atchison business announces closing

Editor's note: An earlier version of this story contained the screen grab of the original post made to the Cash Saver Facebook page. That post contained incorrect information pertaining to the hours of operation. The screen grab has been updated for accuracy.

(KAIR)--A long-standing Atchison business is closing it's doors.

Atchison Cash Saver will begin liquidating this week, leading up to the full closure.

A statement posted to the grocery store's Facebook page Tuesday afternoon said "it is with great regret" that the announcement of the closure is being made.

The statement, credited to the Garrett family, says the store will begin liquidating inventory upon opening Wednesday morning, following a 6 p.m. closure Tuesday.

The Facebook post closes with a thank you to the store's customers, associates, and vendors.

It's not immediately clear how many employees will be affected by the closure.

Cash Saver, formerly known as County Mart, has been in operation for nearly 29-years at its west U.S. Highway 59 location.
