

Pawnee City Council Meets

(KLZA)-- The Pawnee City Council conducted interviews with finalists for two city positions Monday night.

Following the interviews the Council voted to hire Matt Kuhlmann of Table Rock to serve as the Zoning Administrator / Floodplains Manager at a salary of $400 per month.

The Council offered the City Foreman position to Spencer Cumley of Pawnee City who has served as Interim City Foreman for several months
The Council and Cumley did not come to an agreement on a wage for the position and will meet in special session Thursday evening at 7 to discuss the wage for the position.

In other business the Council approved on first reading an amendment to a City Ordinance that would allow ATV's to be driven on City Streets.

Mitch and Kenzie Turnbull, owners of the Blazin Bull met with the Council asking for something to be done to deter business owners and employees from parking on "G" Street which cuts down on customer parking. A couple of Council members said they would visit with businesses in the area to see if the employees would voluntarily park somewhere else.

A contract to have the Southeast Nebraska Development District serve as administrator for the grant for the new fire hall was approved.
