

Races set for Nemaha Co Commission

(KMZA)--There will be contested races this fall for two positions on the Nemaha County Commission.

Three additional candidates filed before Monday's deadline for the positions.

Greg Allen filed as a Democratic candidate for 2nd District Commissioner. In addition, Jason Koch filed by petition as a Republican candidate for the position. The petition has since been verified.

Koch will face Republican incumbent Tim Burdick in the August primary. The winner will then face Allen in November.

Dylan Keim filed before Monday's deadline as a Republican candidate for 3rd District Commissioner.

He will face Bob Sextro in the August primary. The winner will then face incumbent Democrat Dennis Henry in November. Henry filed last week for re-election.

None of the other county offices up for election will be contested.

The primary election will be August 4 and the general election is November 3.
