

Fentanyl among drugs found in Jackson Co arrest

(KAIR)--The alleged possession of drugs, including that of fentanyl, leads to the arrest of a Pomona, Kansas woman in Jackson County.

According to a release from Jackson County Sheriff Tim Morse, the arrest of 32-year-old Chloe Graham followed a traffic stop which, in turn, led to her alleged escape on foot.

According to Morse, Graham- vehicle was stopped around 12:30 Thursday morning, near 142nd and U.S. Highway 75, for an alleged traffic infraction.

Leaving her passenger behind, Graham fled on foot, Morse said, with a Sheriff-Office drone used to locate her.

Once in custody, Graham was arrested on charges of possession of fentanyl, possession of methamphetamine, possession of drug paraphernalia, and two counts of felony interference with law enforcement. According to Morse, she was also wanted on an outstanding warrant, related to drug charges in Douglas County, at the time of her arrest.

Graham was booked into the Jackson County Jail.

Her passenger apparently was not arrested.
