

Rural Johnson, NE

Alan Eugene DeJonge, 64, of rural Johnson, Nebraska was born on November 11, 1957, in Humboldt, Nebraska to Ommo and Marilyn (Bucher) DeJonge, the youngest of three sons. He was baptized on December 8, 1957, at Faith Lutheran Church in Humboldt and later confirmed at Faith Lutheran Church on March 26, 1972. Alan was raised on the family farm northeast of Humboldt where he attended Bratton Union Consolidated School and later graduated from Southeast Consolidated High School with the bicentennial class of 1976. While in high school, he excelled in wrestling, football and track.

On October 29, 1983, Alan was united in marriage to Joyce Bohling at St. Matthews Lutheran Church in Johnson. He and Joyce later transferred their membership to St. James (Long Branch) Lutheran Church in rural Humboldt in 1987. Alan began his career farming with his father before working for at the Farmers Coop in Auburn. He then worked for the Nemaha County Roads Department for 25 years where he drove a rock truck. From an early age, Alan had a love and passion for airplanes which even included flying his own ultralight plane. He loved tinkering in his shop, playing cards and “joker”, and going to his grandkids, nieces and nephews’ events.

Alan passed away on Thursday, May 19, 2022, at his home in rural Johnson, Nebraska having reached the earthly age of sixty-four years, six months and eight days.
