Pyle Picks Up Endorsement of Business Organization

(KAIR) -- Kansas Senator Dennis Pyle has picked up an endorsement from a national business organization for his re-election campaign.

The endorsement comes from the National Federation of Independent Business.

NFIB/Kansas Director Dan Murray says Pyle "...has a proven record in support of small and independent businesses."

Is he further adds that Pyle "...clearly understands the importance of small businesses to the economy of Kansas and has shown he will consider the needs of small business in the legislature."

This endorsement comes from the Kansas SAFE (Save America's Free Enterprise) Trust, NFIB's political action committee.

The National Federation of Independent Business bases its political support on candidates' positions and records on key small business issues.

Pyle will face former State Representative Steve Lukert in the general election.

Lukert is coming off the heels of picking up an endorsement, himself.

Republican State Senator Tim Owens of Overland Park endorsed the Sabetha Democrat earlier this week.
