Holton Elementary to remain in remote learning

(KNZA)--Kindergarten through fifth graders at the Holton Elementary School will remain in remote learning for the remainder of the week due to a teacher shortage.

The school made the announcement in a Facebook post Monday night. The post said the shortage was brought on by an increase in teachers in quarantine.

Pre-K students will still be in-person.

A decision will be made Thursday about how to proceed with the coming week's instruction.
