Missing Washington Co man found dead

(KNZA)--The Washington County, Kansas man, who was reported missing this week, has been found dead.

KSNT-TV reports that Ben Berger was located by Washington County law enforcement on Thursday, and was pronounced dead.

Berger's death is not currently being investigated as suspicious.

The TV station, citing the Washington County Sheriff's Office, reports that it's believed Berger died as the result of a crash on February 17, in Washington County, but confirmation of his cause of death is pending an awaited autopsy.
